Washington, D. C., August 31.—1 a. M.—For Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, fair weather, northwesterly winds; no decided change in temperature.

Good Amusements.

One of the most notable events of the coming State Fair week promises to be the formal opening of the regular amusement scason at the Opera House by the popular Polk Comedy Company, which made such a pronounced hit here last season, in the whimsical satire "Mixed Plokles." The piece has been touched up somewhat since then and made even brighter and funnier than over before. Mr. Polk has also greatly strengthened his company, and it will now compare favorably with that of Jefferson or Wyndham. A slight mistake was unintentionally made in announcing the reportoire yesterday. It will be as follows: Monday, Wednesday and Friday, "Mixed Pickels;" Tuesday evening and Saturday matinee, double bill, "Everybody's Friend" and "Lend me Five Shillings; "Tureday and Saturday evenings, "A Gentleman from Nevada." The advance sale of seats opens Friday morning.

Monday the band brought into the city three of their wagons and left them at the carriage factory of D. Kull. & Co. on the South Side to be repaired and generally fixed for the coning trip South, during the winter months. It is reported that they also contracted to have new wagons built. Among those left was that of the personage said to be Stanley the King, whose home is in Dayton. While he may not be the King, he is certainly a man of prominence among these people. His wagon is very handsomely ornamented outside and inside it is gorgeous. The other wagons were gaudy affairs also, in their day. The horses the band have, appear to be in good condition.

THE QUILL DRIVERS

OF THE MOUNTAIN STATE MEET ness and Form a Jolly Set-A Pleasant Trip to Wheeling Park-The Fire

The sixteenth annual session of the West Virginia Press Association comnenced in this city yesterday afternoon. A business meeting was held in the chamber of the Second Branch of Council until 4 o'clock, when a trip was made to the Park and on returning from that delightful resort, an inspection of the Atlantic engine house was made. Last evening another ousiness meeting was held,

The members of the West Virginia Press Association form a jolly and intellihe Standard sewing machine and is to be gent company. It is a company of men to whom the greatest credit is due, for the prominence they have given the State and of the pieces were shown at the company's office during a recent exhibition of the wonderful things that can be done on the that they have brought about by their writings. In their respective communi-ties, they each and everyone wield to a writings. In their respective communities, they each and everyone wield to a certain extent, a perceptible influence for the general good and welfare of the people; they are educators in every sense of the word and good ones too. A noticeable feature is the number of young men to be seen in the ranks—bright-eyed, energotic men, keenly alive to the important topics of the day and the good of their readers. Yestorday's sessions were only attended by members of the Association and other newspaper men. It is to be hoped that the citisens of Wheeling will turn out today and attend the morning and afternoon sessions, which promise to be very entertaining. A number of interesting papers are to be read, and a most cordini invitation is extended to the public, not alone by the officers of the Association, but by members of the local prees, to be present to listen to the proceedings, assist in making the visiting editors feel at home and by their presence show an appreciation of the work that is being done for the State by thess "boomers."

The Second Branch chamber has been nicely fixed for the meetings. The desks have been moved back against the walls and plenty of chairs put inside the bar to accommodate everybody.

and plenty of chairs put inside the bar to accommodate everybody.

It was shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Mr. John H. Holt, the handsome President of the Association and editor of the Grafton Standard, took the chair and rapped for order. He called on Rev. J. O. Thompson, editor of the Koyser Memdain Echo, to offer prayer, and that gentleman made a fervent and appropriate appeal for Divine guidance and aid. Mr. W. E. Hughes, Vice-President of the Chamber of Commerce, was then introduced, and on behalf of the citizens extended a hearty welcome in a short address. He took occasion to call attention to Wheeling's many advantages, both social and industrial, hoped that the visitors would enjoy their stay here and expressed himself as having no fear but what such would be the case under the care and direction of the local press. Mr. Hughe's clever remarks were received with applause.

Arriving at Eoff street, the party disembarked and proceeded to the Atlantic engine house, where the efficient force at that house extended a cordial welcome and carefully explained all the workings of the Fire Department. The neat sleeping room was visited, also the telegraph room. A false alarm was sounded twice for the purpose of showing how the homes are hooked up and the fast time in which this interesting operation is done. On one trial the time was five seconds. The neat house, the splendid horses, and the system and speed with which they were handled, and the general excellence of the department that was everywhere apparent, were all noted and very much admired. It was a good deal later than 8 o'clock when President Holt called the night session to order. Mr. Frank Tucker, of the Wellsburg Local, was elected a member. The only members who were present in the evening in addition to those named above were R. M. Marshall, of the Calhoun County Chronicle, C. P. Harvey, of Parkersburg, and Mr. W. F. Tucker, editor of the Wellsburg Local, Rev. J. O. Thompson, of the Keyser Echa, who was down on the programme for the annual address, substituted by permission a poem, which it is not too much to say was the ablest effort in that line ever read to the West Virginia Press Association. In spite of the fact that its reading occupied nearly three quarters of an hour it was listened to throughout with the most flattering attention, and was heartly applauded at its close.

One of the bright messenger boys in the mploy of a local telegraph office sat down in the INTELLIGENCER sanctum the other morning shortly after 2 A. Shortly he threw down the sheet, and

"Dang the newspapers, they make me tired!"
"Oh, no; they don't, Puck" said a reporter, "You were born tired!"

"Yes; you're just like that other fool that runs this sheet," and he kicked it as it lay on the iloor. The reporter picked it up. It had a series of pictures of messenger boys—one on a dead run from the office, another taking long strides to get out of sight of the man who rang for him. with his message. Once out of sight he was pictured playing ball, watching a prize fight and killing time in various ways.

him, in the capacity in which he has been sought.

Mr. Handlan is vain of the place he assumes as the Camden leader of the county, in this high dignity he forgets that the Democrats of this county have made him Sheriff; now he assumes the position of their master. He says to one, "go thither," and he goes, and to another, "do this," and it is done. He commands the men from Clay, and they are obedient; he orders the sacrifice of honest gentlemen from Washington, and they are offered up, and in Webster the fidelity of friendship is broken at his nod. Even our friend Pendleton is not spared, and the cheriahed ambition of years is blasted to contribute a prop for the altar of the idol. Everything and every man must contribute a prop for the altar of the idol. Everything and every man must contribute to the elevation of Camden and the mastery of Handlan. Surely the processul has grown great since he was humbly asking the votes of the Democrate of Ohio county two years ago. "Upon what ment doth this, our Casar foed, that he hat grown so great?" The simple straightforwardness of Washington district has to be sacrificed; the treason of Webster district, through a deputy sheriff must be consummated, and Richland district's full force found necessary, and is enlisted to beat down the tried and true Robertson—to satisfy the Canden ring, led by the clever isheriff. Will the men from those districts tell us why their votes were not for Robertson? Surely there is left among the Democrates of this county maniness enough to rebuke everyone whose hand was in this thing.

Why is it that Chairman Jepson and Secretary Copp are still silent? Do they think the Democrates of this county are mere counters to be played with, and they the players? Do they fancy the people are ginorant of what transpired in that convention under the eyes of the whole county? Does not every one who takes the trouble to inquire, know that Mr. Jepson used the tally alicet kept by Assessor Phillips to make Mr. Copp's record incorrect?

Of course our friend "

Of course our friend 'Phillips' agency was meant for the good of the party, and his efficient assistance on that occasion cannot be forgotten. He will be remembered by the Democrats of the county as one who decerves well of them. But the chairman and secretary, it is said, consulted the "Pacificator" of the Register. sulted the "Pacificator" of the Reguter. It is understood that he counselled the "harmony" of their silence. It is known, too, the "Pacificator was" instrumental in preventing the publication of a written statement over the signatures of the delegates from Washington.

Mr. Taney is respectfully requested to let the Democrate of the county consult that "statement" in the peaceable columns of the Register. It will not, he may feel assured, be less "harmonizing" and "pacificating" than was the information in this morning's Register that Hon. Edward Robertson was to be a party to an arrangement to fix up a ticket composed of himself and three Republicans. The workingmen of this county will be kept posted from time to time of current political news in which they are interested by their friend, A TRUE DEMOCRAT.

IMPATIENT DEMOCRACY.

The "Facilicator and Harmonizer" has Been at Work.

To be Editor of the Intelligence.

Sire:—The writer's communication in Saturday's Interactoraxes has caused commotion in the Camden camp. The satellites of the Sheriff are much annoyed at having public attention kept on the doings of our late Democratic County Convention. But they must cultivate patience for the end has not yet come.

It is said that Pendleton's man from Clay district is very wroth, and that he is charging several persons, in a promiscuous sort of way, with being "True Democrat." He is gratuitiously advised to stop guessing, and get down to the solid work of his employment. "True Democrat" is beyond his guess. Let him be content to serve the master who smote him, in the capacity in which he has been sought.
